

If you are about to implement Oracle Business Intelligence Suite or an Oracle data warehouse, it's important that your development team are equipped with the skills to ensure your project is a success. Rittman Mead Consulting have developed a number of specialist Oracle business intelligence and data warehousing courses based on our years of project experience, which can be delivered on-site at your offices for your entire development team.

Flexible Courses to Meet Your Requirements

Rittman Mead Consulting Training courses are normally delivered classroom-style, on site at your offices using our training materials and sample data. Should you wish to tailor a course to your particular requirements, use your own data or extend the course with a development workshop, we will be pleased to help. Running a course in-house can also work out significantly cheaper than having your development team attend a public course, as we charge a standard daily rate and can normally accommodate up to 10 students per course. If you would like to discuss your particular requirements, just get in touch.
